

Forecast For Scotland
Issued by Met Office Aberdeen
at 0400 on Wednesday 22 Sep 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:

Rain spreading southeast and windy, brighter for the north later.

Today:

Dry, bright morning over south and east Scotland. Rain in Northwest, heavier for a short time, edging southeastwards, fizzling out in south during evening. Drier, brighter, less windy weather following for a time.

Tonight:

Showers, some heavy, for the Northern Isles and far north, these will spread across the western Highlands too. Drier for the north east and southern Scotland. Staying windy.

Thursday:

Some brightness for the north and east at first but most places becoming cloudy with patchy light rain and drizzle. Lighter winds for a time.

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:

North and West Scotland mostly cloudy with rain at times. South and East will be drier and brighter. Winds lighter for a spell on Saturday but strengthening on Sunday again.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.